GAITHERSBURG, Md., Jan. 09, 2023 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Emergent BioSolutions (NYSE: EBS) today announced a sharpened strategic focus on protecting and enhancing life through its core businesses, consisting of medical countermeasures (MCM) and commercial products, including NARCAN® (naloxone HCl) Nasal Spray, as well as contract development and manufacturing (CDMO) services. Strategic developments include:

- The appointment of Paul Williams, Emergent's current SVP government/MCM business, as Senior Vice President, Products Business to lead the company's MCM and commercial products business, including NARCAN® Nasal Spray. Paul will report directly to Robert G. Kramer, President and Chief Executive Officer.
- Newly created Science and Development (S&D) function that unites research, product development, and clinical teams. The S&D function will be led by Kelly Warfield, Senior Vice President, Science and Development, and reporting to Adam Havey, Chief Operating Officer. The realigned S&D team will focus on programs that support our life cycle plans for our licensed products while growing the products and services businesses over the long term.
- Elimination of 132 roles related to the S&D consolidation and other organizational changes representing approximately 5% of the current corporate workforce.
- Due to the realignment of these functions and the sharper focus on our core businesses, the following changes to the executive management team:
 - Departure of Atul Saran, EVP and Chief Strategy and Development Officer, effective March 17. Strategy and Development teams will report to Stephanie Duatschek, Chief Strategy and Transformation Officer.
 - Departure of Katy Strei, EVP and Chief Human Resource Officer, effective March 17. Michelle Pepin is being promoted to Senior Vice President and Chief Human Resource Officer, effective immediately.

These actions, in combination with other cost reduction initiatives, are expected to result in annualized savings of over $60 million when fully implemented. The costs associated with these actions are estimated to be approximately $9 million - $11 million and are expected to be incurred in the first quarter of 2023.

"Emergent is undertaking these actions to strengthen our business, reduce costs and return to sustainable, long-term growth," said Emergent President and CEO Robert G. Kramer. "Sharpening our focus on our core products and services will also allow Emergent to have the most impact for the most patients, stay true to our mission to protect and enhance life and ensure that Emergent continues to be a vital contributor to public health well into the future."

Mr. Kramer continued, "While decisions like this are never easy, I'd like to thank those affected for their dedication and service to Emergent, our customers and our patients. Their contributions have helped position us as a leader in public health and emergency response, and we will provide resources to help our colleagues successfully transition to new opportunities. Additionally, I would personally like to acknowledge and thank Katy and Atul for their exemplary leadership and many contributions to Emergent and wish them well in the future."

Emergent's product portfolio consists of an array of MCMs and commercial products, including, but not limited to, anthrax and smallpox vaccines and therapeutics, as well as NARCAN Nasal Spray for which the company has announced the U.S. Food and Drug Administration acceptance and priority review of its application to move to over-the-counter status. The focus on MCMs leverages Emergent's long-standing relationship as a reliable partner to the U.S. and allied governments helping protect against and respond to public health threats.

Emergent will also continue to offer CDMO services across its network of sites in the U.S. and Canada with an unrelenting focus on quality and compliance.

Given these significant strategic changes, the company will provide its initial financial outlook for 2023 when it reports financial results for the fourth quarter and full year of 2022 in late February 2023.

RECONCILIATION OF NON-GAAP MEASURES (unaudited)

This press release contains financial measures (Adjusted Net Income (Loss) and Adjusted EBITDA (Earnings Before Interest, Taxes, Depreciation and Amortization)) that are considered "non-GAAP" financial measures under applicable Securities and Exchange Commission rules and regulations. These non-GAAP financial measures should be considered supplemental to, and not a substitute for, financial information prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. The company's definition of these non-GAAP financial measures may differ from similarly titled measures used by others. Adjusted net income (loss) adjusts for specific items that can be highly variable or difficult to predict or reflect the non-cash impact of charges. All adjustments are tax effected utilizing the effective tax rate. Adjusted EBITDA reflects net income (loss) excluding the impact of depreciation, amortization, interest expense and income taxes, excluding specific items that can be highly variable and the non-cash impact of certain accounting adjustments. The company views these non-GAAP financial measures as a means to facilitate management's financial and operational decision-making, including evaluation of the company's historical operating results and comparison to competitors' operating results. These non-GAAP financial measures reflect an additional way of viewing aspects of the company's operations that, when viewed with GAAP results and the reconciliations to the corresponding GAAP financial measure, may provide a more complete understanding of factors and trends affecting the company's business.

The determination of the amounts that are excluded from these non-GAAP financial measures is a matter of management judgment and depends upon, among other factors, the nature of the underlying expense or income amounts. Because non-GAAP financial measures exclude the effect of items that will increase or decrease the company's reported results of operations, management strongly encourages investors to review the company's consolidated financial statements and publicly filed reports in their entirety.

This press release references changes in Total Revenues, Adjusted EBITDA and Adjusted Net Income (Loss) from the company's full year 2021 performance to the mid-point of the estimated full year 2022 performance. The company believes these metrics are an important part of assessing performance on a year over year basis. These changes are expressed in dollars only. A reconciliation of the calculation of these changes is included below.
